

Dick Durrance

Presents
Dream Like A Champion

In a time when people and organizations are under intense pressure to change, Dick Durrance, in a warm and humorous keynote presentation titled Dream Like A Champion, provides you with ideas on how you can embrace the changes you encounter as opportunities to grow ... without losing touch with the core values that guide your life.

- With stories and pictures from assignments as a National Geographic staff photographer and the only individual named by his peers as the Magazine Photographer of the Year and Advertising Photographer of the Year, Dick explores with you three ideas for embracing change as an opportunity to grow:

1. Never let up on looking for your natural talents. If you develop them into skills with unrelenting tenacity, you create opportunities for you and your business to grow.
2. Venture outside of your comfort zone and connect with people from other walks of life who can broaden your horizons.
3. Journey deep into your core so that you know enough about yourself to distinguish with confidence between what you want and what you need.

- Change is inevitable, but your destiny is not locked down. You decide how you are going to respond to change. You can let it overwhelm you or you can embrace change as an opportunity to grow.

That is what champions do.
That is what thought leaders do.
That is what you and I can do.

- Dick's father, a legendary ski champion, taught him that very few people will be lucky enough to actually be a champion, but that everybody can dream like a champion. Just like a champion, everyone can choose to be the best that they can be."

Honors:

- * 1963 & 1964 All-American skier
- * 1968 Military Pictures of the Year: 1st, 2nd & 3rd
National Press Photographer's Association
- * 1972 Magazine Photographer of the Year
White House News Photographer's Association
- * 1987 Advertising Photographer of the Year
American Society of Media Photographers
- * 1991 Presidential Medal for Outstanding Leadership and Achievement, Dartmouth College
- * 2005 & 2006 Golf Course Photograph of the Year
International Network of Golf
- * 2011 Finalist, Rising Star of the Year Competition
National Speakers Association

What audiences are saying:

"Dick Durrance's amazing photography and incisive commentary combine to elevate the thinking and the goals of all who have the pleasure of hearing and seeing him at work! It is pure joy to watch him in action. He is a one-of-a-kind fit for business groups.

Glenna Salsbury, Legendary Speaker

If a picture is worth a thousand words, then a thousand well-chosen words married with a lifetime of incredible images is truly priceless. Dick creates that balance with a skill that only a true communicator can accomplish. It is a transforming experience with applications that extend way beyond a camera lens.

Allison Scott, Director of Communications, The Broadmoor

"The reaction we received from our membership was outstanding. It is often a challenge to find a speaker who will resonate as strongly with medical groups as they do with trade associations. You bridged that gap and left everyone feeling as though they had come away with something aimed specifically at them."

Larry Vinson, CAE, Executive Director, Alabama Council of Association Executives

Current books:

The Little Book of Big Ideas

Circling the world as a photographer on assignment for National Geographic and global advertising agencies, Dick filled a bookshelf with journals. Here for your pleasure are images and insights from those pages.

The PGA TOUR: A Look Behind the Scenes

Photographs and interviews introduce readers to the touring pros and the characters who bring that show to our living rooms every week.

Where War Lives: A Photographic Journal of Vietnam

Dick created the opportunity to carry his camera from induction to discharge from the U.S. Army.

